Girl injured in Boutwell Street accident

A 17-year old Wilmington girl is recovering from injuries sustained in a serious accident on Boutwell Street on Monday evening.

Carol Fillo is hospitalized at the Massachusetts General Hospital, with a fractured skull and internal injuries. She underwent emergency surgery, and is reported to be coming along well.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David

Fillo of Hardin Street, she was returning from a shopping trip in her parents' station wagon when the accident occurred, about 8:30 p.m.

The car was headed west on Boutwell Street at the time of the accident. It apparently skidded and hit a tree.

The Wilmington Fire Department responded with the rescue truck, the ambulance, and Engine One. Fire fighters used the Hurst tool "the jaws of life" to open the car. The car had caught fire in the engine compartment, but it was extinguished before it could spread.

Fire Fighters Corcoran, Fuller, Smith, Paulsen and Lt. Blonigan responded to the call.

The accident is one of several to have occurred in the vicinity of the Burlington Avenue - Boutwell Street intersection in recent months.

An honor student at Wilmington High School, Carol was recently notified that she had attained fifth highest academic standing of the 300 students in the Senior Class. She is a member of the National Honor Society and the student School Committee. She is employed part-time at a local McDonald's restaurant.

Cox to speak in Wilmington

Archibald Cox is to be a speaker at a meeting on Judicial Reform sponsored by the League of Women Voters of Wilmington at the Woburn Street School cafeteria on Tuesday, October 25, at 8 p.m.

Cox, chairman of the Governor's Select Committee on Judicial Reform is perhaps best remembered as the special prosecutor on "Watergate" who was dismissed by former President Nixon in the so-called "Saturday Night Massacre." More recently Mr. Cox has been representing the University of California in the Bakke "reverse discrimination" case currently awaiting a decision by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Judicial reform is presently being considered by the State Legislature based on the work done by Cox's committee. All facets of the subject are expected to be discussed at the League's meeting.

Paul R. Sugarman, immediate past president of the Massachusetts Bar Association and a member of the Governor's Select Committee will also be speaking. A representative of the House Judiciary Committee which has been considering the various reform proposals has also been invited to join the panel.

The public is urged to attend this very timely and informative meeting. A question and answer period will be part of the format of the evening allowing those attending to learn more, and express their own views on this vital subject of concern to all citizens of the commonwealth.

School enrollment drop gradual but steady

Think back to the schools of the 1960s. Remember the overcrowding, the double sessions, the classes held in cafeterias and auditoriums? Recall the spectre of fear that haunted town meetings, the possible loss of national high school accreditation, the hurry-up building programs.

Are these all things of the past? Can our panic now be erased by the changing picture of the 70s?

It's no secret that school enrollments are in a period of decline. According to R. Derek Little, assistant superintendent of schools, they have been dropping gradually but steadily since 1973.

Little said that school administrators expect the downward trend to continue for at least another five years.

The October 1, 1977 enrollment at Wilmington High School is 1,355, down 34 students from the 1976 figure of 1,389. By Oct. 1, 1983, the projected enrollment is expected to be 1,138 students, a decrease of 18%.

Little was quick to point out, however, that even if the trend should continue, the high school, will still be overcrowded. It was built in 1950 to hold a maximum of 900 students.

At present there are no plans for an addition to the High School. "The school committee will have to look around for other ways to relieve the pressure," Little said.

Little cited "the pill" and a depressed economy as possible reasons for the drop in school enrollments. He said that people just aren't having as many children these days.

"We are at a stage of zero population growth in the U.S.," he said. "A few years ago, the average number of children was 3.2 per family. Now it is closer to two."

In 1973, the total school population in Wilmington was 5,522 students. In 1974, it was 5,415. It dropped to 5,050 in 1976 and on Oct. 1 of this year, the total school population for the town of Wilmington was 4,897 students.

The biggest drop in enrollment between Oct. 1, 1976 and Oct. 1, 1977 occurred in grade 11. The decrease of 49 students may be indicative of a greater number of students dropping out of school at age 16 to take full time jobs.

The next biggest decrease in enrollment comes in grades one and two, children who were probably born in 1970 to 1971.

Little said it is unlikely that the town will be required to build any new schools for a while. He said, however, that it is still too early to talk about closing existing schools. "All bets are off," he joked, "If we should have a baby boom or if the economy picks up."

Governor buys ticket

School dances are rather ordinary news, but Mrs. Eleanor Demos has a story with a twist to it.

She is heading up the Shawsheen School PAC (Parents Action Coalition) Halloween Dance committee, and, of course, she has been seeking publicity for the dance.

Last week, she was thrilled when Ann Simmons volunteered to buy the first tickets for the dance. Mrs. Simmons is the school secretary, and is willing to help most activities in the school.

But over the weekend, Mrs. Simmons was upstaged in her position of number one supporter.

Mrs. Demos, along with her husband, School Committeeman Jim Demos, attended a dinner in Lowell, held at the Athenian Restaurant, it was attended by Governor Dukakis.

Unlike some functions where a prominent politician will speak, and then beat a hasty retreat, the dinner was Dukakis' stop for the evening. Some of the people present were among his more prominent contributors in his last campaign, and this was his way of repaying them.

As the governor made his way after dinner, Mrs. Demos engaged him in conversation, and then sold him a ticket to the Halloween Dance. She explained to him that the PAC was holding it to raise money for children's activities at the school.

After selling one ticket, Mrs. Demos secured the governor's signature on another ticket, which she does not intend to sell.

The dance will be held at the Shawsheen School on Friday, Oct. 28. The five dollar admission includes a buffet dinner.

Kenneth Spinelli with Bedell Brothers

Bedell Brothers Insurance Agency, Inc. has announced the appointment of Kenneth A. Spinelli as a vice president of the firm.

Mr. Spinelli has had broad experience as a broker, risk manager, and insurance consultant and more recently was employed by a large national brokerage as a corporate casualty accountant.

at library

State Senator Carol Amick will be holding office hours on Tuesday, October 25, from 7:00 to 9:00 p.m. in the Historic Room of the Wilmington Memorial Library.

Wrap

Carol Fillo was alone in the family car when it went out of control and hit a tree on Boutwell Street Monday evening.

It will become an office building

The stately old mansion at the end of Middlesex Avenue is being reconstructed. Once upon a time, some half a century ago it stood across the street, in back of what is now Weinberg's. It was the home of Wilmington's Chief of Police, Walter A. Hill.

Mr. Hill was a portly gentleman, given to wearing a handsome uniform with four stars on it, and in that uniform to visiting the City of Lowell, riding up on the old trolley cars of the Eastern Mass. Railway.

A century ago that home was the stately mansion of Cyrus L. Carter and his wife Sarah Davis Jaquith Carter. He was in the lumber business, a prosperous man. The house, while the Carter family lived there, had long walks, with lilac shaded porches.

Go back another 50 years, and it was a part of the home of Miss Sabra Carter, who lived half a mile northerly, on Middlesex Avenue. The house was cut into three parts, and Cyrus inherited one part - not a small part, either.

Now the old mansion has become the property of Dave Scott, a Lawrence businessman. Scott owns a business management firm, and intends to move it to Wilmington. He has an office in Woburn, and another in Connecticut.

The long term goal is an office park, with a professional complex.

'Encore'

It's not too late to get tickets for the Wilmington Spotlighters Dinner Theater Dance.

The social event of the season will take place this Saturday, October 22 at the brand new Sons of Italy Hall in Wilmington. The evening features a cocktail hour, an eight-course roast beef dinner, dancing to music provided by the melodious Destinnes, and a Broadway musical revue called "Encore."

For reservations, call 658-3948 or 658-4586 before Friday, October 21. Tickets will also be available at Lucchi's Market until Thursday, Oct. 20.

Eye clinic Saturday

The annual eye clinic of the Wilmington Lions Club is to be conducted Saturday, starting at 8:30 a.m. in the Wildwood School. The clinic is conducted for first graders.

Two hundred and forty-three children will be examined, without cost, by the clinic, for eye problems.

Senior notes

This is the last week seniors may sign up for the Halloween Anniversary party scheduled for Wednesday, October 26 beginning at 6:30 p.m. The event will be held at K of C Hall in Wilmington and the evening will include dinner and dancing. There will be a charge of $2.00 for each senior.

The Wilmington Memorial Library has resumed its film program for seniors. The program will be held on the first and third Tuesday afternoon of each month with a starting time of 1:45.

The series will alternate feature films and travel logs.

The Senior Citizens' fair will be held on Saturday, November 5 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the drop-in center at Wilmington Plaza.

Public is invited. Many and varied items made by the seniors will be exhibited.

Wilmington fire and health officials issued a cease and desist order to Anthony Paolini on Monday in relation to a dumping operation, found off Ballardvale Street. The dump caught fire on Sunday morning, and it took Wilmington fire fighters seven hours to extinguish the burning rubbish. Paolini had used the area as a gravel pit, and had then sought a renewal of his gravel license earlier this year. That renewal was denied.

Horribles Parade

Halloween will be celebrated in Wilmington with the eighth annual Horribles Parade, to be held Monday, October 31 at 6:30 p.m.

Participants will meet at the police station and will march to the high school tennis courts. All that's needed to take part in the parade is a costume.

Wilmington selectmen will serve as honorary judges for the event. A Horribles Parade ribbon will be given to each participant. Refreshments will be available to all and special prizes will be awarded.

The Horribles Parade is sponsored by the Recreation Department, whose goal is to provide the children of Wilmington with a safe and enjoyable way to celebrate the holiday.

In the interest of safety, the volunteer Horribles Parade committee has asked parents to do their part to discourage door-to-door trick or treating.

Deborah Covello joins Air Force

Deborah Covello of 135 Federal Street, Wilmington has entered the US Air Force through its Delayed Enlistment program. She joined with the service through Staff Sergeant Dana McCollum at 228 Central Street, Lowell. She is the daughter of Mrs. Eleanor Covello.

Deborah is scheduled to leave for basic training at Lackland Air Force Base, near San Antonio, Texas, on December 12. Plans are that she will receive technical training in the Aerospace Ground Equipment career field, which will be transferable to college.

Sweet Adelines present "The Western Roundup"

The cowboy era of buckskins and chappalions will be brought to life again by the Sweet Adelines.

On Saturday, Nov. 12, the 80 member chorus will present their third annual show, "The Western Roundup," at Durgin Concert Hall on the South Campus of Lowell University.

Dressed in their new western attire, they'll sing "Ragtime Cowboy Joy," "Vaya Con Dios," "Top of the World" and other old favorites.

The show will feature the Haystack Four, the Variety Quad and the Merrimack Valley Chapter Quartets. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

The Merrimack Valley Chapter of Sweet Adelines is under the direction of Carl D'Angio. The group has performed for the past four years.

Tickets for the November concert will be sold at the door.

At an organizational meeting held October 3, the St. Thomas Women's Club was established. Its purpose is to enable members to share ideas and guide their children through spiritual and social activities.

Present at the meeting to advise the fledgling group were three members of the St. Francis Mothers' Club of Medford.

A slate of officers was elected for the coming year. These were: Helene Constantino, president; Mary Ellen Taylor, vice president; Helen MacKinnon, recording secretary; Barbara Sealesse, corresponding secretary; and Therese Michaud, treasurer.

Father Charles Kinella of St. Thomas parish will act as spiritual advisor to the group.

Future meetings will be held on the second Tuesday of each month at 8:15 p.m. in Villanova Hall. All Wilmington women are invited to attend. Dues are $5.00 per year.

The next meeting is scheduled for November 8. Entertainment will include a handwriting expert as guest speaker and an assortment of wines and cheeses.

Ann Ballou show in Boston

Ann Ballou, Wilmington artist, is to present her serigraphs at a special three week Boston showing entitled New Approaches to Silk Screen Printmaking.

The showing is scheduled to open October 21 at Weniger Graphics in the arcade of the Park Square Building, 207 Berkeley Street. Hours are Mon. through Fri. from 10 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Mrs. Ballou lives at 190 Middlesex Avenue. She has studied at Randolph-Macon

Women's College, Syracuse University and with Elias Newman Her silk screen prints are bright, sensitive studies of people and landscape in colors that range from pastels to deep rich hues.

"Delivery" and "After Four" are two pieces which are typical of her new work. They set a meditative mood through the use of diagonal shafts of light to focus on a genre scene such as milk bottles in a holder of a doorway and stairs framing a group of young people.

Goodwill Industries in capital drive

The Merrimack Valley Goodwill Industries has set a goal of $100,000 for their coming capital fund campaign.

The present scheduling calls for the campaign drive to be between November 21 and December 19.

The Goodwill Industries has the largest rehabilitation program for the handicapped in the area. Each day more than 100 physically and emotionally handicapped adults attend programs at the Goodwill Rehabilitation Center on First Street, in Lowell. These adults seek not charity, but a chance to be self-supporting, productive, tax-paying individuals.

The drive this year is to provide funds to eliminate debts incurred when the facility was heavily damaged, a year ago, in an explosion. Additional funds are also sought for the replacement of obsolete equipment; thus enabling the organization's current operating income to provide the funds for full services to the disabled at the rehabilitation center.

An instructional dinner is planned for November 21, to kick off the drive. The concentrated four week campaign will be on a personal solicitation basis. The chairman of the drive is to be announced within the next few days, as the campaign volunteer organization is formed.

LETTERS

Dear Larz:
Regarding the article "Recognition" which appeared in the Town Crier and the subsequent furor it generated.

The item was made up of excerpts from Marjorie Holmes' book "Who am I God?" a best selling collection of poems and other writings expressing universal doubts, the fears, the joys of being a woman.

Marjorie Holmes is a born again Christian lady whom God has given a special gift to be able to relate feelings of women dealing with the many stresses of today's society.

We feel she so eloquently expresses the pain, delights, challenge and rewards of being a woman today. These are the women who do not want to march or join protest, yet feels her domain threatened - her home, her children's school, yes, even her very life in today's violent world.

"Who am I God?" expresses the helplessness we sometimes feel "go away crime, violence, drugs, apathy and prejudice" all those things that surround our lives.

Many of us are questioning our priorities...we are seeking God's guidance. We are trying to be good parents and loving wives as well as being responsible active Christians. This series will continue. We apologize for identifying with St. Thomas. We ask God to Bless us and continue to guide and protect us.

A "Concerned Christian Woman" Name withheld by request

Dear Larz:

At the recent Special Town Meeting the Wilmington Home Owners Association (WHOA) passed out a one-page flyer which basically expressed our concern for the serious property tax situation. (Exhibit one)

On the Friday following this meeting the three members who had their names on the flyer received a letter from Mr. Morris, the Town Manager. (Exhibit two)

Our reply to Mr. Morris and the Selectmen is enclosed (Exhibit three) together with a copy of the Initiative Petition to stop State spending sponsored by Citizens for Limited Taxation and endorsed by WHOA. (Exhibit four)

We request the support of the press in bringing the disastrous and punitive tax situation before everyone in the town. Your assistance in reporting the proposals we will make will be much appreciated. We can assist you by using our resources to report on meetings which you and your staff cannot attend. If you or your staff wishes to interview or consult with us, we will make ourselves readily available.

Dear Larz:
I am one of the many persons who attended the Wilmington football game last Sunday who again notice the absence of the Wilmington High School Band. This is the second time they have failed to appear at a Wilmington home game. The first time was at the Stoneham game. It is very sad to see the lack of support for our team by the band and the students.

I assume the administration informed the Band Director of the cancellation of Saturday's game just before the game, while the band members were present. All it would have taken would have been a few short words, "The game has been postponed until tomorrow; be here at such-and-such a time." If, on the other hand, she had to contact each band member to inform him or her of the game's cancellation, then she would have also told them of the postponed game and the time they should report. The other schools seem to manage to provide their teams with music; I think we should too. The taxpayers of our town provide their money for the music department of the school system, and we deserve to see how some of it is used.

I will be waiting for the next appearance of our "Wonderful High School Band."

Sincerely,
Marilyn B. MacKinnon

The March to Cambridge

The turning point of the American Revolution, as seen in retrospect, was 200 years ago, at a place called Saratoga, in New York State.

Until 1777 the war had been conducted mainly in the Atlantic coastal plain, but early in that year, in London, General John Burgoyne presented a plan to divide the colonies, to King George III. There had been previous attempts to divide the colonies as Burgoyne proposed to do - that is by marching south from Canada, and there would be later attempts, in the second war with Britain, known as the War of 1812.

Burgoyne presented his plan through the first minister, Lord George Germaine. It was to move his forces south through the Lake Champlain area, and to march to the Hudson River, where they would be met by forces under the command of General William Howe, in New York. His plan was well received by Germaine and the King. It was approved, and then those two worthies forgot to send orders to Howe, in New York, with tragic consequences.

Howe was busy planning a strike at Philadelphia, using the Royal Navy commanded by his brother, Admiral Richard Howe. He had a well thought out plan, that became successful, and resulted in the capture of the capital city, and led to the winter of Valley Forge, for the troops of the American Army.

Burgoyne assembled his army in Canada (7,863 men and 43 pieces of artillery) and moved south through Lake Champlain. His route took him to Crown Point, where many of the Colonials had fought, only 25 years previously, and to Ticonderoga, taken by the Colonials under Colonel Starke only two years previously.

Ticonderoga, under the command of General St. Clair, was abandoned. There were Massachusetts troops there, - Middlesex County troops. Every town in Middlesex County had its quota of men serving in New York State.

The Americans retreated to Fort Anne, and then on to Fort Edward, 27 miles south of Ticonderoga. General Philip Schuyler was in command and had about 4000 troops. He was being pushed back, and the Congress was not happy. It planned a change in command.

Burgoyne did not press his advantage, however. He diverted forces, under the advice of Tory advisers, so that he was delayed in reaching the Hudson River. General Benedict Arnold, on the westerly side, and General John Stark in Vermont thwarted the British. The Vermont troops inflicted a terrible lesson at Bennington, where Burgoyne lost nearly 1000 men, dead, captured or wounded.

On August 19 General Horatio Gates took command of the American troops. Gates was a man who was liked by the troops, and this, together with more state troops being sent, brought up the American forces to about 6,000 - as forces of Burgoyne were being constantly depleted.

Burgoyne arrived at Saratoga on September 14, to be faced by twice his number of troops under the command of Gates. Burgoyne advanced in three columns. Gates controlled the roads south. His lines had been laid out by the Polish volunteer, Thaddeus Kosciuszko.

On September 19 at Freeman's Farm the battles began. The American troops were in direct command of General Arnold, who typically and impetuously exceeded his orders to advance on the British lines, rather than to wait for their attack.

The British lost 600 men, and the Americans 283. There are those who say that if Gates had been more aggressive, as was Arnold, the British would have had to surrender then and there. Arnold had the advantage over Burgoyne. It was not pressed by Gates.

The final and decisive battle began on October 7. In command of the Massachusetts troops was Colonel Brooks of Reading. One of the officers was Capt. Cadwallader Ford of Wilmington. All the local towns were represented. The attack, that afternoon, was at a redoubt manned by German mercenaries commanded by Colonel von Breyman. Benedict Arnold "was everywhere." He had his horse shot from under him. He was wounded in the leg as the redoubt was taken.

The loss of the redoubt was the disaster that led Burgoyne to start a retreat, at 1 a.m. on October 8. The surrender was nine days later, with 4693 men.

They had been on reduced rations for some days. General Burgoyne, splendidly capricious, presented his sword to General Gates as the American troops watched in solid lines, and their fifers played "Yankee Doodle."

The surrender had been accomplished. The turning point of the Revolution had been reached. There was a problem, however - What to do with the British prisoners.

The decision was soon reached - march them to Boston, and there hold the prisoners until an exchange could be arranged.

One contingent of the American troops that was named to escort the prisoners had in it Capt. Ford and 21 men. It is not to be presumed that all the men were from Wilmington, but to say that they were from Middlesex towns was close to the truth.

Another person who took part in that long march was Dr. Stephen Huse of Methuen, which was an Essex County town. He was a part of the troops commanded by Capt. David Whittier, troops that were sent to escort the British prisoners.

Dr. Huse is of interest today because his granddaughter Abigail married a physician from Tewksbury, Dr. Silas Brown. Dr. Brown was the fourth child of Colonel and Mrs. Jonathan Brown, of the Brown Tavern in Tewksbury Center, now being rebuilt.

It could be that Jonathan Brown served in the events leading up to Saratoga. At the moment the writer is without knowledge. His military career can, in one sense at least, be followed by the title given him as each of the children was born, according to the Tewksbury records.

When Silas, the future owner of the Harnden Tavern was born the rank was Major. Before that no rank was shown. For Benjamin, Betsy and Jerusha, all of whom were born subsequent to 1780, the title shown was Colonel.

Molly Brown, (the name was later changed to Mary) was of the French family - a name still well known in Tewksbury, and her grandfather was of the Manning family.

The Journal of Dr. Huse is of interest. He kept his accounts in pounds, shilling and pence, not yet being accustomed to the Continental currency, or perhaps disdaining it. Thus 1 - 0 - 0 would be one pound, no shilling and no pence, and 0 - 1 - 0 would be one shilling no pence. The good doctor recorded every expense, and the distance he marched, and the places he stayed.

The record was found later, uncorrected, in its original form, in the Harnden Tavern, and is today the property of a descendant, Mrs. Alice Hathaway Dillaway of Waltham.

Dr. Stephen Huse was the grandfather of the lady who became Mrs. Silas Brown, the wife of the Dr. Silas Brown who purchased the Harnden Tavern in North Wilmington about 1816. That building, a landmark, is now town property and an historical monument.

Dr. Silas Brown was the son of the Colonel Johnathan Brown of Tewksbury who owned the Brown Tavern, now a Tewksbury landmark. The Brown family in Tewksbury dated back over 100 years earlier, and in that part of Billerica which later became a part of Tewksbury it was recorded that the Brown family had their home on the banks of the Shawsheen River.

Between Dr. Huse and Dr. Brown there is a gap of one generation. If the legends of Wilmington are true, Dr. Brown was to become the progenitor of five generations of physicians.

Dr. Johnathan Brown

One of these was Dr. Johnathan Brown, son of Silas. Dr. Johnathan married Olive, the daughter of Eldad Carter, who lived on what is now Shawsheen Avenue in Wilmington. Dr. Johnathan then took over a part of his father's medical practice, that part which was in Tewksbury. Where he lived is not known - possibly it was in the Brown Tavern.

When the Tewksbury Almshouse was founded, about 1850, Dr. Johnathan Brown was named the first superintendent. That is, now, the State Hospital, Tewksbury Hospital.

It is further recorded that when the Civil War began Dr. Johnathan Brown volunteered his services as a surgeon for the armies of General McClellan. Dr. Silas, a Swedeborgian, was an ardent anti-slavery man. Presumably his son followed in the same beliefs.

Dr. Johnathan is recorded as having been in the south, with Gen.

McClellan. This, of course, was the Peninsular - the attempt to march to Richmond in 1862, with the subsequent bloody fighting that occurred. Dr. Johnathan became ill (malaria?) and had to return to Tewksbury.

One of the nice legends about Dr. Silas Brown says that during that war he used to sit in the middle upstairs window of the Harnden Tavern, in the south facing the sun, and write letters to his son in the Union Army. It can well be believed.

Dr. Johnathan, after his return, battled unsuccessfully against his malady, and he died in 1867. His widow, Olive, spent many subsequent years caring for a sister in Boston, Lydia Hathaway. After the death of Lydia Olive moved to Vancouver, British Columbia. There she lived out her life, never to return to New England.

Patron drive

Wilmington High School seniors will be knocking on doors on Thursday, October 20, seeking contributions for their annual patron drive.

Wilmington has a handsome new gazebo on the town common, a gift to the town from last year's seniors, the Class of '77. It shows what a senior class can do, when given a little support.

The patron drive is held each year to help defray the costs of publishing a yearbook, running a senior prom and producing the senior class play. The cost of the yearbook alone is more than $5,000.

All patrons' names will be placed on the senior play program.

This year's production will feature an original work, "Page After Page," written and directed by Bill Cunningham, a Wilmington High School senior. Cunningham, who was chosen as director last May, wrote the play over the summer months and gave it to the senior class so that they would not have to spend a large sum of money for royalties, said Ms. Norkunas, senior class advisor.

"Page After Page" is a mystery comedy which relates the tale of the family reunion with everyone waiting to hear who grandfather will include in his will. Mysteriously, people begin dying in droves.

Carol Chipman, who heads the high school drama department, said she thought the play was unusually good, especially for a youthful writer.

Cunningham, who was described by Ms. Norkunas as very talented, is also president of the senior class and a member of the band and the track team. He lives at 48 Lawrence Street.

"Fireman Save My Child," a melodrama in one act, will also be presented to complete the playbill.

The art of Origami

Center, New York. Members of the Garden Club are currently working on favors for the "adopted" ward of the Tewksbury State Hospital for Thanksgiving. Also, a fall clean-up will be held next Monday, and plans are already underway for the annual Christmas program to be held at the Loella Dewing School, November 9.

The program, entitled "Everywhere, Everywhere Christmas" will feature lecturer Lois Johnson. Tickets are available from club members or may be purchased at the door.

Origami, the art of paper folding as practiced in Japan was demonstrated by Joyce S. Rockmore for the Tewksbury Garden Club this week.

Mrs. Rockmore focused the workshop on napkin folding. Club members learned a dozen simple folds for luncheons or formal dinners.

The more formal the dinner, the simpler the napkin fold, the Origami expert insisted. She has appeared on the Good Morning show as a lecturer discussing the history and utilization of Origami and is a member of the Origami

Wildcats edge improved Redmen

The Wilmington High School soccer squad survived a first period rush by an improved Tewksbury team and rode to a 4-3 win last Wednesday as scoring leader Dave Sousa scored twice. The Wildcats handed the Redmen their first loss on the Tewksbury Junior High Field. The win helped Bill Peabody's team keep their MVC leading pace with the Billerica Indians.

Both teams broke out of the offensive gate fast as the Redmen outshot the Wildcats 10-3 in the first period only to have two of those WHS shots get by goaltender Mike Morgan. D. Sousa got WHS on the board first after taking a pass from his brother Paul in the opening period. Six minutes later Tommy Flynn tied the game for Tewksbury with his fifth goal of the season. Flynn took a full field cross pass from senior fullback Ray Tremlett to beat WHS goaltender

Randy Foster to the lower right corner of the net.

The more experienced Wildcats broke the tie in no time when they capitalized on a TMHS defensive error as Cliff Hall scored on a pass from Dave Sousa to give Wilmington a 2-1 edge. The score came just 15 seconds after the Redmen had fought back to tie the game.

Coach Steve Levine's team failed to fade as the first 18 minute period ended. With the last 10 seconds of the period being counted down sophomore winger Bob Dascoli took a deflection pass from junior forward Dave Wakeen and scored to tie the game at 2-2 with five seconds left in the period.

Tewksbury fell behind at the 8:45 mark of the second period when Dave Sousa beat Morgan to the upper right corner of the net after taking a pass from Tim Donnelly. Thirty-five seconds later the Wildcats wrapped up their scoring for the day when tri-captain Eric Wood knocked in the rebound off a Cliff Hall shot. The Redmen drew to within one goal as the wild first half ended. Jimmy Lynch converted a Shawn Wakeen pass 30 seconds after the fourth WHS goal to make the score 4-3 Wildcats. Foster played well in the second period in surviving a 9-2 Tewksbury shot edge.

Foster held Tewksbury at bay in the second half with a standout performance that included highway robbery on a Dave Wakeen shot that was labeled for the corner of the net. Randy dove to make the save that seemed to take some of the steam out of the Tewksbury attack. Tewksbury finished with a 31-13 edge in shots on net and a 39-26 shots at net advantage.

Today Wilmington plays host to Methuen in a 3:30 MVC game.

Tom leads rush

WHS soccer tri-captain Tom Stewart leads the offensive charge last Wednesday at Tewksbury. The Wildcats dropped the improved Redmen 4-3.

Adult Hockey League

The Wilmington Adult Hockey League began its seventh season last Sunday night with a pair of games at the Youth Ice Arena.

The seven teams in the league are: Arrowwood Builders, Blues, Bulldogs, Fred F. Cain, Leo's Canteen, Red Wings, and the defending champion Bucko's. John Davis has been the league scoring champ for the past two seasons. League games are scheduled for Sunday and Wednesday nights at the Youth Ice Arena.

Sunday's games (Oct. 16) - Arrowwood 5, Blues 5...Greg Corcoran scored two Arrowwood goals with the other lamplighters going to Dana Mullarky, Snooky Lynch and Dave Irwin. The Blues' goals were scored by Dave McIntosh, Bill Leonard, Dan Yeadon, and two by Dit Clapp.

Clapp's shorthanded goal at the 1:10 mark of the third period tied the game for the Blues. The teams battled to a 2-2 standoff after one period before Clapp's first short-handed score gave the Blues a 3-2 edge to open the second stanza.

The defending champ Bucko's kept their reputation intact in the night's second game with a 9-0 blasting of the Bulldogs. Roy Anderson recorded the shutout in goal for the champs. Mike Gracia, Doug Fish, and Ken DeMaggio provided the bulk of the offense with two goals apiece. Merrill MacInnis, Dave York, and Tom McNamara had singletons for the winners.

Leo's Canteen topped off the night by nipping the Fred F. Cain club 4-2. John Davis had all four Leo's goals to begin the defense of his twice-won scoring title.

Dino Esposito paced the Cain attack with both scores.

Bantam A's keep winning

The Tewksbury Bantam A's continue to burn up the Youth Hockey League with their winning ways as the team stretched its unbeaten streak to eight games with three more wins in the past week.

The team has a 4-0 record in league play at the Wilmington arena and a 4-0 mark for non-league tilts. Recently appointed captain Dave Wilkie was the ringleader last Thursday (Oct. 13) with a pair of goals and an assist in leading Tewksbury to a 6-3 win over Somerville in league action at Wilmington.

Joe Capello also scored a pair of goals to help the winners' offense.

Tewksbury went ahead 2-0 in the opening period as leftwing Wilkie notched both goals. The first was assisted by Jim DiLuca and the second by Capello.

Somerville popped two home to tie as the second stanza opened, but Tewksbury came right back with matching goals to go ahead 4-2.

Capello sank his first goal on setups by Bobby Corrieri and Wilkie. Rick Sheehan scored what proved to be the game winner on a John Doherty assist.

Somerville opened final period action with the final goal against Tewksbury netminder Scott Bonney. Tewksbury retaliated with two quick scores to ice the game. DiLuca lit the lamp with helpers from Frank Hawkes and Capello. Capello later pumped in his second goal with DiLuca recording the assist.

Although they didn't score the line of Mike Mara, Mike Dascoli and Derek Vachon held Somerville in check throughout.

In non-league play, last week, the Bantam A's clobbered Wilmington 5-1 and nipped a strong Billerica club 4-3.

On Sunday (Oct. 16) Billerica took a quick 2-0 lead scoring in the opening three minutes of play. Tewksbury came right back to tie as Capello scored from Wilkie. Robbie Richmond then put the disc home completing the passes of Capello and Russ Barnes.

Tewksbury went ahead 4-2 in the middle frame as Doherty sank a Sheehan pass and Richmond slipped home a Corrieri assist. Billerica managed another goal closing the gap before Tewksbury toughened in front of Bonney. Monday (Oct. 10) Tewksbury jumped to a 2-0 first period lead. Wilkie scored on an assist from Steve Bucknam and Doherty lit the lamp with helpers from Sheehan and Richmond.

Wilmington snuck in their only goal of the game in the second period, but Tewksbury came back with three more. Capello scored from Wilkie and Barnes. Bob Corrieri scored an unassisted goal before Wilkie powered the puck home from DiLuca.

The third period was scoreless with goalie Bonney hard at work preserving the win.

The Bantam A's meet East Boston Thursday night (Oct. 20) in an 8:10 game at Wilmington.

Metric workshop

Do you know the difference between a mile and a kilometer?

If you can't answer that question in three seconds or less, then Wilmington's Shawheen Elementary School has a program for you.

The Metric system of measurement is becoming more and more commonplace in the U.S. Children, today, learn it in school along with their ABCs. To their parents, however, metrics often seem as foreign as Egyptian hieroglyphics.

To help remove the mental block often associated with something new and to ease the transition into metric measurement for members of the older generation, the Shawheen School is offering a series of four Metric Workshops for Parents.

The workshops, which are sponsored by the school's Parent Advisory Committee (PAC), will be held on Oct. 27, Nov. 3, Nov. 10 and Nov. 17 in the school cafeteria from 9 to 10:30 a.m. They will be conducted by Richard L. DeRosa, director of science for the Wilmington public schools.

Each session will deal with a different topic. Attendance at the entire series is advised. Some of the topics to be covered are:

What is Wilmington doing in metrics?
Early measurement systems
Origins of the metric system
What is Metric S.I.
What are the basic S.I. units?

Measurement activities and problem solving in metrics
Parents will be using metric measurements and performing many metric activities.

Audio-visual charts and various other materials will be utilized to make these sessions meaningful, practical and enjoyable.

As a bonus, some metric materials will be distributed to each participant, compliments of the Wilmington School Department.

Parents may register by calling Mrs. Simmons at the Shawheen School Office on or before Oct. 25. Workshops will be limited to 35 participants.

Baby-sitting arrangements will be the responsibility of each parent.

Alan Richardson in major NATO exercise

Alan J. Richardson, Mechanist's Mate Fireman, is participating in the major NATO exercise "Display Determination" on board the USS Charles F. Adams, guided missile destroyer. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Richardson of 15 Pinewood Road, Tewksbury, and joined the Navy in 1975.

His command is serving with naval forces of Portugal, Italy, Greece, Turkey and the United Kingdom, in the Mediterranean, for amphibious assault landings and anti-submarine warfare maneuvers.

The operation is to evaluate allied capability to control the Mediterranean Sea lanes, and to reinforce and supply ground troops in Southern Europe. Amphibious landings are scheduled to be at Saros Bay, in Turkey, with follow-up exercises continuing ashore.

AMC Concord D/L.

1978 CONCORD 2-DR D/L

The luxury Americans want.
The size America needs.

The first thing you notice about the Concord D/L 2-door sedan is the incredibly striking appearance. Everything about it says luxury. Outside, there's a formal Landau vinyl roof with opera windows, whitewall tires color-keyed wheel covers, wide color-keyed body side scuff moldings, even an elegant hood ornament. Inside are luxurious individual reclining front seats, crushed velvet upholstery throughout, plush cut-pile carpeting, wood-grained instrument panel, Extra Quiet Isolation, carpeted trunk and spare tire cover, an electric digital clock and much more. And you get all these "extras" at no extra charge.

But the Concord D/L doesn't just look great, it's an outstanding performer, too. Its size, for example, makes it easy to handle and maneuver. And it has a standard 232 cubic-inch engine to give you the 6-cylinder power you need to cruise comfortably and pass safely on the highway. And Concord D/L is covered by AMC's exclusive Buyer Protection Plan.

The Concord D/L comes in 2-door and 4-door sedan models and in a 4-door wagon. Whichever you choose, we think you'll agree it's one of the finest, most beautiful cars AMC has ever built. It's got the luxury you want, the size you need, and a sticker price that makes it an incredible value!
